THE SOUTHERN BAPTISTS

MEET IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

AND ARE HEARTILY WELCOMED. The Convention Makes a Good Beginning and Eushes Through with the Business.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 8 .- [Special.]-The Southern Baptist convention crowded a great deal of work into its first session of three hours, and went to dinner with a good the whole of the afternoon to the American Baptist Educational Society.

The educational society also made good use of its time, as will presently appear, and the evening and the morning of the first day were far more fruitful than the first days of conven-

THE ATTENDANCE PRESENT. Between 1,200 and 1,300 delegates have reported and been assigned to hotels, and when the great body came to order in O'Brien's opera house at 10 o'clock this morning, the first floor and stage were packed with members, and a hundred or so remained on the outside, while about spectators crowded the two galleries above. Old Dr. Chamthe two galleries above. Old Dr. Cham-bliss, of Missouri, who helped to organize the first convention forty-six years ago, conducted the devotional exercises, and began by reading the Psalm which has the words: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." When he gave out the hymn, "Amazing grace, how sweet the sound," the great audience of 1,600 people rose sound," the great audience of 1,600 people rose and joined in the song. It was a grand chorus which filled the auditorium and perceptibly

THE SPEECHES OF WELCOME. The long, tedious roll call, and the cross fire of corrections, were followed at length by two addresses of welcome, which lacked a good dealiof being the perfunctory. Mayor Lane made a capital short speech in which the Birmingham idea was kept well to the front.

Birmingham idea was kept well to the front. He said the people here invited two great religious bodies to meet with them this year, because they liked that kind of company.

"Money making and industrial development," said Mr. Lane, "were not the only things in which we can put our souls. We have the will and the power to put behind us the sordid things of this earth, and drink from those pure sources of social and religious outpres which give to life its chief charm and its ture which give to life its chief charm and its only solace. We point with pride to the number of church buildings here as evidence of religious fervor. I know that true worship may be held in any kind of a building, but it is sad to see a man consideror a building, but it is sad to see a man considering anything good enough for him as a Christian and nothing good enough for him as an individual. When people provide magnificent churches, welknow that it is from the love of God. Schools have well been called adjuncts of the church, and on this account we invite you to inspect our schools and their magnifi-cent buildings.

"You sometimes hear us called 'Bad Birmingham.' I know that there is much here that is bad, but I think we can show more that which is succeeded by the whistles of indus-tries representing millions of dollars, and in the sequestered home of the deer, with the palatial homes of 60,000 people. Then he showed how eight Baptist churches had grown up here in the nineteen years, all but one self-supporting, and four were the largest in the state, as well as leading churches of the Southern Baptist convention. Speaking of the religious growth of the city he said:

"Bad Birmingham is the best church-going city I have ever seen. There is not church capacity enough to satisfy her people, and her Sabbath sun never kisses the spires but scores of people are turned away from the pews and churches of the city. There seems to be a holy enthusiasm for religion as well as for money making. There is nothing large here. Our churches are not large enough, our schools are not large enough, our jalls are not large enough [laughter], and the opera house is not large enough. So today we have four churches which cost $350,000 and yet we have not up here and provoke discussion more heated than ever, and as Dr. Pickard is pastor of a church of cosmopolitan membership, he is evidently anxious to forestall anything that will make unpleasant feeling. Certainly his remarks had that appearance when he said:

"I welcome you in the name of a great denomination, which has made some mistakes, and is too much attached to the order of democracy, as a distinguished lawyer said to me, in terms which were play your cards the poorest," so well satisfied with their principle that they do not try to promulgate them. We have been sitting in Jermalem all our lives waiting for the Holy Ghost. We have kept all our money there, we have been talking of little things and letting alone great things, leaving the rest of the earth to others because we are democratic. While we are true to the memory of our athers, and to every inch of soil drenched by their paternal blood, there are some of us who hope the time has almost dawned when that imaginary accursed line of Mason and Dixon will be blotted from the face of the globe; and when we shall be one people [applause]; when no more of this convention will leave its legitimate missionary purposes and aims, to waste its best talent and its time over those questions which should have been buried at Adpomattox many years ago. [Applause.]

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers resulted in the unanimous choice of Judge Haralson, of Solma, who has been president of the convention since the death of Dr. Mell. He has just enough of the autocratic methods of the bench to dispatch business, and the convention moves steadily under his ariliamentary guidance. There were our vice presidents to elect, and Dr. Hawtherne nominated Governor Northen for the first. Of course, the governor was unanimously elected and invited to a seat on the stage. The other three vice presidents are Professor Charles L. Cocke, of Hollins' Female institute of Virginia. Colonel James A. Host, of char three vice presidents are Professor Charles L. Cocke, of Hollins' Female institute of Virginia; Colonel James A. Hoys, of Couth Carolina, and Dr. T. T. Eaton, of Louisville. Dr. Lansig Rurrows was, as usual, made secretary, and Rev. F. Gregory was made assistant.

F. Gregory was made assistant.

Then came the reading of Dr. H. A. Tup"s report for the foreign mission board. He showed that the collections for the year were 115,822, which is $4,348 more than last year, and $20,355 above the average of five years.
If the whole amount of $1,750,000 contributed torty-five years, $812,000 was raised in the adecade. The deficit for this year is $5,623, while the Methodists
$20,000 behind, and the American Bantiss

Missionary Union has a shortage of $61,-000. The interest paid on loans is $1,068 less than last year, and Dr. Tupper urges more systematic giving, to do away entirely with the necessity for borrowing. The report pays tributes to the memory of Dr. J. H. DeVotie, of Georgia, and Dr. Henry J. Ellison, of Virginia. Dr. Tupper made a running comment on the various fields, showing nearly all to be prosperous. Altogether there are eighty-six missionaries in the employ of the board.

THE EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY.

prosperous. Altogether there are eighty-six missionaries in the employ of the board.

THE EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY.

In interest the chief feature of the day was the meeting of the American Baptist Educational Society, which was called to order at 3 o'clock. It developed the fact that there is a three-year-old organization which has raised three millions of money to invigorate the Baptist educational institutions of the country, and mapped out a programme which contemplates nothing less than a great national system of education under Baptist auspices. Considering the sudden growth of this organization, and the enthusiasm aroused by its appearance, and putting this together with the great Methodist educational movement, which is building up another great system of denominational schools, to which millions of money are annually given, the impression is irresistible that the thinking people of this country, through channels of their own creation, are beginning a renaissance on a grander scale of the old-time idea of education from the private purse, rather than from the coffers of the state. They are founding systems which are in themselves, whether so avowed or not, mighty protests against the, feeble and communistic spirit which seeks all things from the government. The Baptist Educational Society is composed of all the Baptist of the United States, and as Secretary Gates remarked, is, on account of the preponderance of members and educational institutions, a matter largely southern. It began three years ago with an investigation, which discovered 140 Baptist institutions of all kinds, and denominational education in a state of chace. These 140 institutions, the American Baptist Educational Society proposes to weld into one great inational education in a state of chace. These 140 institutions, the American Baptist Educational Society proposes to weld into one great system, which is called a pyramid, and is composed of the public school, the academy, the college and the university, all mutually dependent on each other. For the first four or five years, Dr. Gates states the society has mapped out a programme in four lines of action. It proposes to stimulate academies in New England and the middle states; to help the colleges in the south and west, and to establish a Baptist university at Chicago. The ultimate plan is to have such a university in leach geographical section of west, and to establish a Baptist university at Chicago. The ultimate plan is to have such a university in leach geographical section of the country, and series of colleges and more numerous academies in the same region, the academies furnishing students for the colleges and the colleges sending them to the university where the uttermost boundary of human knowledges will be reached. But as the association finds the educational system in a state of chaos, it proposes to seize first the strategic points and later fill in the gaps of the line. So it is that different classes of institutions are established in different localities. This tremendous educational scheme is largely the creation of John Rockefeller, whose great executive mind organized the Standard Oil Company. In three years his contributions to the work of the society have been $1,900,000, of which $1,600,000 went to the great Chicago Baptist university, to which Dr. William R. Harper has been called as president. In making his report as secretary, Dr. Gates used this striking language:

"We saw that a system was growing up. all called as president. In making his report as secretary, Dr. Gates used this striking language:

"We saw that a system was growing up, all parts of which were playing into the state, and the denominational institutions of the land would soon have been swept from the field. Without system, without organization, we are not strong enough to compete with the state, but 3,000,000 of Baptists organized can accomplish what they will for God and humanity." He showed that by civing twenty institutions from $55 to $1,500 each, on condition that they would raise, about four times as much in each case, the society has used $209,850 as a stimulus with such effect as to secure to three institutions $1,165,500. The total gifts through the society itself in the past two years have been $2,250,000 of which Mr. Rockefeller gave $1,900,000. Including the amounts added by the influence of this stimulus, the whole increase of endowment in Baptist educational institutions of the country is $3,415,000.

When the reading of the report was ended the great audience rose as if by a common impulse and sang

Scarcely had the announcement of the failure of the Spring Garden bank been made, before there was a rumor afloat that the Pennsylvania Safe and Trust Deposit Company, also located at Twelfth and Spring Garden streets, had also suspended payment.

To the general public the crash was a great surprise, for the last sale of Spring Garden bank stock, on April 28, 1891, the price obtained was $121.50, which is $21.50 above par. The capital stock of the institution was quoted at $750,000, and there was a supposed surplus of $130,000. A dividend of 2½ per cent was paid upon the capital stock at the last annual meeting, and the bank was, therefore, generally supposed to be sound.

The bank is a large depository of the city's money. According to the statement of City Treasurer Bardsley he has $144,000 on deposit in the institution. The officers of the bank are: President, Francis W. Kennedy; cashier, Henry H. Kennedy; assistant cashier, S. A. McClure. The board of directors were: Francis W. Kennedy, Nathan Middleton, Ephraim Turland, Nelson F. Evans, Ephraim Young, Robert C. Thomas and John B. Stetson.

At 11:30 o'clock the following notice was Ephraim Turiand, Neison F. Lvans, Britan Young, Robert C. Thomas and John B. Stetson.

At 11:30 o'clock the following notice was placed upon the door:

This bank is closed by order of the comptroller of currency until further notice. W. B. Drew,

National Bank Examiner.

When the people gathered immediately after the doors closed, President Kennedy looked out of a side door and called out that he had no statement to make. As soon as he had finished speaking, he disappeared inside amid the shouts and jeers of the disappointed crowd. Later he gave out the following statement:

We have this morning decided to place the bank in the hands of Mr. Drew, national bank examiner. This step has been forced upon us principally by reason of large withdrawals of deposits during the financial stringency which commenced last September, and the dullness of general business since. To meet these demands and maintain our reserve it was found impossible to realize rapidly enough upon the assets. We have been below our reserve for some weeks past, and can see no immediate prospects of increasing it. We still owe a balance to the clearing house committee for outstanding loan certificates, the payment of which is being pressed. These facts, coupled with disturbances of the past week, have caused increased weakness on the part of some of our depositors, together with the breaking of our credit with other banks. We trust the suspension will be only temporary.

The policy of the government, with respect to the escaped Chilian vessel, Itata, is still an official secret. Secretary Tracy this morning, refused to discuss the matter at all. Officers whose business it is to transmit orders to our naval vessels are almost as uncommunicative. There can be no doubt of the fact that the government is extremely anxious to exhibit all possible zeal in the effort to recapture the vessel in order to evade any unpleasant consequences that might arise through the presentation of a claim for damages in behalf of the Chilian government. But naval officers are very skeptical of the ability of our ships to recapture the Itata under the circumstances attending her flight.

It is not possible to get a definite, authentic answer te the question, "Will the Charleston be sent after the Itata?" All of the information vouchasfed is that the Charleston two weeks ago was ordered to coal and get ready for sea at the earliest moment, and the formalities attending the president's reception at San Francisco necessarily delayed these preparations, but it is understood that they are now actively under way. Single-handed, even the feet Charleston would have great difficulty in catching the Itata. The latter vessel may be 500 miles ahead of the Charleston when the latter starts on the chase, and the variation of a point or two of the compass in steering the course would soon separate the two vessels by many leagues, so that the Charleston might pass the Itata without knowing it.

On this account it is probable that, if the

on this account it is probable that, if the navy department is readily satisfied of its right to seize the Chilian vessel on the high seas, and is determined to do so, it must rely solely on United States vessels in the south. So far it is said that no move has been made in that direction, but the department may, at any moment, cable to the Pensacola, which is on the Chilian coast, and to the Baitimore, Admiral Brown, who is on the San Francisco somewhere off Peru, to endeavor to head off the runaway. runaway.

WASHINGTON, May 8 .- The American Medical Association closed its forty-second annual meeting at this morning's session. The president announced the appointment of a com-mittee of twenty-five physicians to investigate the relation of contract railroad surgeons in the United States to the code of ethics of the medical profession, and what action should be taken by the association in reference to corporations employing surgeons only under such rules as were laid down by them. Among the mem-bers are J. Cockrane, Alabama; L. P. Gibson, Arkansas; J. Ford Thompson, Washington, D. C.; J. D. Fernandez, Florida; W. S. Powell, T. F. Wood, North Carolina; W. P. Steps were taken by which the association could become a body legally incorporated by the United States, instead of any one state, as the trustees could thereby be authorized to transact business in a business way, which hitherto had been impossible. Congress will be requested to enact some law as suggested in the the address of Commissioner Ross, by which confidences between the patient and physician may be as secure from investigation as are now those between the lawyer and client. confidences between the patient and physi-cian may be as secure from investigation as are now those between the lawyer and client. The Special Sessions.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—This closes the meet washington, may 6.—Inscises the meet-ings of the general body, but much important work was done in each special section, the re-sult of which may be taken practically as the reflected work of the medical profession in this country. In the section on the practice of medicine, the most important set of papers, with the discussion to which they gave rise, related to tuberculine, Dr. R. Koch's method or tuberculosis. Five papers were prepared by Dr. S. K. Jackson, of Norfolk, Va.; Dr. H. D. Gedding, of the Marine hospital service; Dr. Karl von Ruck, Asheville, N. C., and Dr. A. S. Pattee, Boston, Mass. The cases in illustration were given, taken from all classes, but treated as far as possible under the best hygienic and dietary conditions, and in all cases tuberculine was the only medicine used. Making allowance for individual differences in treatment and in judgment, the decided only treatment and in judgment, the decided opin-ion of authors and of those who discussed the subject was that tuberculine had an undoubted value that the medical profession as yet hardly appreciated. The enthusiasm of six months ago had given place to skepticism just as extreme, but no other remedy yet known could supplant Koch's lymph. It was dangerous in doses that produced favour hance herein on. doses that produced fever—hence, begin on a very minute dose. A patient with bowel complications, infants and pregnant women were harmed. Hæmatoptysis was to be avoided, but the remedy need only be discontinued for a time, not stopped altogether. As a means of diagnosis it was most always available, and there was no danger of producing disease by it.

Dr. von Ruck's experience is perhaps of exceptional interest. In the sanatorium at Asheville his results before the use of the lymph were good. The patients gained in weight, the night sweats were controlled and the lungs were improved, all this under the most favorable hygiene and discipline; but since is at New York, ready to go into commission, but there are no sailors to man her. It is said at the navy department that there must be a prorata scaling down of the complements of all of our ships—at least until congress meets and enlarges the force. The white squadron, now at Norfolk, will be the first to feel the reduction, and it is understood that the Chicago is to lose seventy and the Boston and Atlanta sixty men each.

THE CORONER SYSTEM.

An article in this same section, by Dr. H. O. Marcy, of Boston, the newly elected president, on "The Coroner System in the United States," criticised severely the condition of our present laws, and showed how much wiser it would be to take the position out of the control of politicians and make it an office of dignity and scientific importance.

Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich. had an interesting article on the modern dress of women under a technical name. He ascribed many of woman's troubles to the dictates of fashion. He claimed that the figure of man and woman was the same to begin with, and ought to continue so, but unfortunate woman, with all her natural ills, must be the slave of improper dress and habit, and half her troubles (abdominal, of course) came therefrom. Corsets were an actual sin. (Doctors didn't all agree upon this, by any means.) THE PATENT MEDICINES.

THE PATENT MEDICINES.

Some good advice was given to physicians in the section of materia medica and pharmacy of interest to the general public, in an article by Dr. Hare, of Philadelphia, on the relation of the profession to drugs bearing trade marks. This referred to such drugs as antipyrine, phenacetene and sulfonal, lately brought from Germany and patented in the United States, and other preparations in this country, good in themselves, but too great a source of revenue to their owners. Should they be prescribed? Arguments were fruitless, however. The world must have the drug and the doctor must prescribe; the only possible way for him to avoid violating the code of ethics and his conscience was to have the government refuse to issue patents, or to allow their manufacture in this country under a scientific name.

The sections were always crowded, and papers were carefully discussed, but most of them were quite technical, and related more to details of matters than to general influence upon the world.

A CABINET COUNCIL

a significantly large reduction in the tory vote, coming upon the striking Gladstonian success in Stowmarket, has dispelled unionist delusions that the government is still certain of a big majority, although the recent series of bye-elections has not weakened the popularity of Mr. Gladstone nor the strength of the liberals.

The cabinet today had to decide the course of business in the house of commons, in view of the fact that, if the government decides to dissolve parliament in the autumn, the strong-est measures must be taken to hasten the passage of the Irish land bill and the introduc-tion of an educational measure.

After today's council it became known that After today's council it became known that the ministers had determined against an early dissolution. The land-bill obstructors can thus work through their nineteen pages of amendments unchecked until after the Whit-

Mr. Goschen told the house of commons today that the government is prepared to jog along with clauses after the Whitsuntide recess. Ministers in the lobby of the house assured the disgusted legislators this evening that parliament might be kept sitting until late in the autumn, as the cabinet meant to pass an educational measure, and to introduce an Irish local government bill before proroguing.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND MUDDLE.

In regard to Newfoundland, Lord Knutsford, after today's council, resumed communications with the Newfoundland delegates. The latter, in their memorial, offered to submit the bill to the imperial government, which, once agreed to, could be expeditiously passed by the colonial legislature as a temporary act. The delegates' draft of the bill, now known as the Knutsford bill, is reported to have been approved by the cabinet. Lord Knutsford's reply to the delegates' memorial is now preparing and ought to be in the hands of the delegates tomorrow. It is expected that this reply will enable the colonial legislature to pass the proposed act before the Whitsuntide recess, and thus lead to the government's dropping the present obnoxious bill.

THE EXPULSION OF VERNEY.

The formalities of the expulsion of Captain Verney and De Cobain from the house of commons will be secret. Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Goschen, Lord Hartington and McCarthy will speak in vindication of the historic purity of the character of the house of commons. The recent crop of scandals involves in disgrace seven members of parliament, not including several who escaped exposure, though their cases were widely talked about. No party capital can be made out of the revelations, each section contributing its blackguard to the list.

Special curiosity attaches to the question of In regard to Newfoundland, Lord Knuts list.

Special curiosity attaches to the question of how Mr. Gladstone will deal with the phenomenal outburst of vice among members of the house of commons. Conversing with a friend on the Verney case, he expressed the opinion that there was nothing exceptional in the cases of public men exposed; that the importance of the cases lay in their being symptomatic of social and moral disease, requiring vigorous, united Christian action to amend it.

Sir Henry James has introduced a bill enabling members of the house of commons to resign without resorting to the fiction of applying for the stewardship of Chilton Hundreds.

Pending the house publicly cleansing 1 tself of Verney and De Cobain, the James bill will not be permitted to come up for discussion. This bill has been judged as designed to enable other culprits to sneak out silently and has got fatally dubbed "the parliament blackguards relief bill," although it compels members to apply to the house for leave to resign.

other method to relieve the evicted tenants; and country conventions, meeting throughout Ireland, will raise ffunds until the date of Ireland, will raise funds until the date of the general election, when it is hoped Parnellism will be finally wiped out. The McCarthyites have received overtures proposing to them not to contest a number of seats in consideration of the Parnellites abstaining from contesting other seats. As this arrangement is a trick to allow Parnell to return to the next parliament at the head of a secure fraction of probably twenty, the McCarthyites will not assent to it. Every Parnellite candidate will be opposed.

THE FLORIDA SENATORSHIP. A Contested Election Case Decided Against

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 8.—[Special.]—
After three days of heated and acrimonious debate, the house at 11 o'clock a. m. today de cided the contested election case from Suwanee county in favor of the sitting members by a vote of 35 to 21. This is a loss of two votes to Call, which seems to settle his defeat.
Whilst there appears no hope for Call to secure the nomination, he has fifty votes determined to stand by him. His forces seem to have exhausted every effort to add to his strength, and have now taken on a stolid indifference. They are hopeless of victory for their chief, but determined his mantle shall fall on no other shoulders. Those who have recently left Call are far the most bitter now recently left Call are far the most bitter now in their opposition to him. It does not seem that Mays is the man to down Call.

THE MAYS MEN JUBILANT.

The Mays men are jubiliant tonight, and have been decorating the old town with unbounded enthusiasm. They scored two clean points today over Hon. Wilkinson Call's supporters, although the latter still maintains a defiant attitude. In the first place, the house this morning, by a vote of 35 to 21, decided the Suwanee contest in favor of the contestes, Messrs. Newlan and High. Clark, of Polk, the leader of the Call side, concluded a two days' speech in favor of the contestants. It was able and exhaustive, yet Tom Shine, the old war horse of Orange, knocked it into smithereens in a ten minuted' speech, wherein he voiced the prevailing sentiment that the election law of 1889 was the salvation of the people of Florids. The position of the anti-Call side has been that the law was openly and flagrantly violated in the district. The entire vote of the precinct was thrown out according to the minority report of the house committee on elections, which left the sitting members a majority in the county. They are both anti-Call.

There was more or less of a pandemonium in the joint caucus tonight, which didn't get down to business until nearly 9 o'clock. Young, of Manatee, who has, up to the present, voted for Call, in accordance with instructions from his constituents, took the bit in his teeth, and, in a rousing eulogy, amounced himself for Mays to the finish. The first ballot tonight then showed Call 49, Mays 42, and 6 scattering. On the sixty-eighth ballot Mays captured another Call adherent in Richbourg, of Santa Ross, the score standing; Call, 49; Mays, 43; Blockham, 3; Long, 1, and a solitary blank.

After voting down a resolution, inviting Mays to address the caucus on next monday night. The Call forces than went into scoret session in the house chamber, and the capitel. The entire proceedings are a standing attraction for the boats chamber, and the capitel.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 8.—[Special.]—On Tuesday information was received in this city of the death, at Autaugaville, about thirty miles from this city, of Mr. Theodore Nunn, a rich but eccentric old man, who occupied by himself a handsome home near Autaugaville. It was stated at the time that Mr. Nunn's house was burned down, and that he was badly burned in the fire, and that his was badly burned in the fire, and that me death was directly due to the injuries sustained in the fire, and the majority of Nunn's neighbors believed that he received his injuries in an endeavor to save his property from the burning building.

A gentleman who returned from a visit to Autaugaville, brings the startling news that on his deathbed old man Nunn charged that two of his neighbors, both reputable men and highly connected, had, on the night of this burning, overcome him by means of chloroform or some other drug, and that after he was senseless, poured kerosene about the house and set it on fire, hoping that he would perish in the flames. A negro man living near Mr. Nunn was aroused by the fire, and on running to the burning building, he did not see Mr. Nunn, and after searching, found him badly burned and almost unconsious, in the burning structure. He pulled him out, and carried him to a place, where he remained until he died.

Old man Nunn is without children or relatives, and some years ago he adopted two young girls, who are at present attending a convent, and who he always said should inherit all the property he possessed. The deceased possessed, among his eccentricities, a great antipathy to paying railroads or steamboats for transportation, and he has for years traveled, whenever he left home, in a possible has the property of t for years traveled, whenever he left home, in a peculiarly built wagon, which contained a bed, cook stove, dining apartment and storage room, to carry a full supply of food, and in this he would frequently made trips lasting two or three months, during which he would travel

M'DOUGALD HAS FLED. Governor Holt Has Offered a Reward for His Capture.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Governor Holt today offered $200 reward for the capture of D. A. McDougald, of Laurinburg, who stands charged with the assassination of his aged uncle, Simon Connolley, in Robeson county. This sensational assassination attracts much attention. McDougald's friends assort his innocence, but he has fied and is by some supposed to be in Georgia. It is alleged that the crime was committed to secure the insurance on Connolley's life for McDougald's benefit. It is now claimed by reputable citizens of Laurinburg that McDougald is not the person named in the policy as the beneficiary.

Sr. Lours, Mo., May 8.—A Post-Dispatch special from Marshall, Mo., says: William Price was hanged in the jail yard in this city at 11:40 o'clock today. Price was a negro and was hanged for an assault upon a white girl who afterwards suicided from mortification, and to avoid appearing in court to describe her treatment. This is believed to be the first case in this state where, upon a regular trial, a man has been sentenced to death for a criminal assault. Shorter methods have been the rule.

BIRMINEHAM, Ala., May 8.—[Special.]—An essay to assure the establishment of the great basic steel works here was taken this afternoon by the directors of the Elyton Land Company, who subscribed $100,000 to the enterprise. Mr. T. T. Hillman had made the proposition to raise the money if the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company would subscribe $300,000, and the Elyton Land Company $100.000. Then he and associates received. subscribe $300,000, and the Elyton Land Company $100,000. Then he and associates were to put in a half million more, making $300,000 capital with which to start the establishment. The formal action of the Elyton Land Company closes the transaction, and on the strength of this, it is said, a telegram has been received from Andrew Carnegie, saying that Alabama will be the steel-making region of America, if not of the world.

About 6 o'clock Mr. Wallace Barnes' ther, who resides at 416 Bay street, heard distracting noises from the fowl house. Mrs. Barnes imagined somebody was disturbing the chickens, which caused all the cackling and deafening noises. She quickly jumped up and went into the yard. Peeping through the lattice work of the chicken house she noticed several chickens on the ground dead, an others flying from limb to limb for safety. Suddenly she noticed the wildcat jumping at chickens, and when the ferocious animal esnied Mr. Barnes he made a desperate plunge

Mrs. Barnes, with rare presence of mind, seeing the cat was trying to grasp her, quickly slammed the door, held it fast and called to her son, who responded bo the alarm.

Mr. E. Barnes, when told of the cat's presence, rushed into the house, procured his parlor rifle and returned; took deadly aim at the cat, and the first bullet pierced the wild animal dead on the ground. The fowl house was then entered, and the cat removed, together with eight young spring chickens, which he had killed and was enjoying for an early breakfast when he was called down. He was an imense and powerful animal. He was measured do found to be three feet in length. Afterward investigation developed the fact that it was the famous Hamburg cat, owned by Mr. Tom Butler.

Augusta Does Not Want to Be Run Over by Electric Cars.

Augusta, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—The city pouncil and the electric railway are at loggerheads. The result is the people are the sufferers, for rapid transit in Augusta is no more. The trouble comes because the city council refused to grant the electric railway the privilege of running twelve miles an hour. The limit of the speed of electric cars is set down at five miles an hour, but the limit has been exceeded all along. The result of the city's refusal to allow the rapid transit of the electric cars is that today a change in the schedule was made over the entire road, by which the rate of speed does not exceed the maximum rate of five miles per hour as allowed by the ordinance. This change has knocked rapid transit in the head in Augusta. The cars now preep along slowly, and there is hardly any difference made in the time of the electric cars now and what the mule cars used to make. Before the schedule was changed, a car ran from the cemetery to the arsenal in twenty-seven minutes. Now it takes thirty-seven minutes to make the trip, and passengers lose ten minutes of valuable time. The people will soon tire of this wagon-rate travel, and rapid transit will be demanded even if the city has to be treated to a little compulsion.

Thomaston, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—Memorial Day was celebrated here today. It was intended to celebrate it on April 26th, but swing to the scarcity of flowers it was postponed until this date. There was an immense growd in attendance, the largest known in the history of Thomaston on a similar occasion. The exercises commenced at 2:30 o'clock p.m., at the handsome Lee institute. The auditorium was packed with ladies, gentlemen and children. Judge Sherman presided. The choir sang several patriotic songs. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Abyrick. The report of the Ladies' Memorial Association was then read, and officers for the ensuing year were elected. After the exercises at the institute the great crowd formed in procession, headed by the Thomaston Silver Cornet band, and all the school children of the county, the veterans and the mayor and council, and proceeded to the soldiers' cemetery, which is situated in a beautiful wood about three-quarters of a mile from the institute. When the procession arrived at the cometery a large crowd from the surrounding country was already found present.

County Commissioner Frank Vining introduced the orator of the day, Editor John T. Bolfeuillet, of The Macon Evening News. The address of Mr. Boifeuillet was unanimously pronounced the most ellowers and beautiful ever delivered delivered and beautiful ever delivered delivere

Is Convicted of Stealing in Macon and Sentenced to the Chaingang.

Macox, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—J. J. Bent, a young white man and a regularly enlisted soldier in the army corps, now stationed at Fort McPherson, has gotten himself into considerable trouble in Macon.

He came here with the Atlanta excursionists Wednesday, and, like the balance of the Atlanta excursionists, was left over in Macon.

He had no money, and, in order to procure transportation, he persuaded a drummer to loan him the sum of $2, which he promised to pay back as soon as he returned home.

The drummer willingly let him have the money, recognizing his predicament and knowing what would happen to him if he falled to return to his post. He gave Bent the money, together with his card, saying to him if he ever cared to return it he could do so.

The drummer also treated Bent several times to drinks, and it was not long before the young soldier and the drummer were both in a very convivial mood. Bent, in fact, became young soldier and the drummer were both in a very convivial mood. Bent, in fact, became the came disorderly while drunk and dition, it is charged, stole $50 from the drummer's pocket.

Bent became disorderly while drunk and wound up the night at the barracks. They searched him at the station house and $10 were taken from his pocket, but he subsequently remarked that the sergeant had failed to take $40, which he had elsewhere. This it was, which led to his arrest for stealing. The money was found on his person, and on identification was turned over to the drummer.

Today Bent was arraigned in the city court on the charge of larceny from the person, and was convicted and sentenced to four months on the chaingang or to pay a fine of $50. Bent's attorney gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

Bent's attorney gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

The judge said to Bent in sentencing him that he had made the sentence as light as pos-sible owing to the fact that he was drunk when he committed the theft, and had he been sober might not have done so. It was a sad spectacle, and Bent had many sympathizers.

He and some companions were playing in the neighborhood of the Manchester mills, when a freight train coming into the city passed by. Young Golden had been in the habit of boarding these trains and securing a ride some distance up the track. As the freight passed by the young boy ran alongside of it, grabbed the ladder and made a soring to gain a foothold. Instead, however, his foot slipped, and he fell under the moving train. His foot was almost severed by the wheels, while his leg was horribly mangled above the knee. He was dragged a short distance by the train, and in this way received painful injuries.

About three years ago Benjamin Mann, a painter, happened up to Farmer Cooglar's place -a new dwelling and needing the pa brush. He proposed to do the work. He was informed that he would have to see Mrs. Smith, nee Miss Cooglar, as she seems to have been the cashier at the time. The painter and Mrs. Smith soon agreed on the work, and Mann went to work. Mrs. Smith, though oung, was the widow of a soldier of the war of 1812, and was drawing $144 pension from It was not long until she and the painter be-came good friends, and from that to lovers, and for three long years the contracting parties have been sweethearts.

Mr. Cooglar informed Mann that he could not marry his daughter, and for him to make himself scarce, or he would go for him. A few days ago Mann hired a horse and buggy, and, in company with a nephew, started for his "true love." Reaching the neighborhood between Carrollton and Bowden, Mann put up at a neighbor's, and sent his nephew on to her home to inform her of his presence.

Before his nephew had been gone very long his future better half came in. Mann informed her that, if she ever intended to share his sorrows and happiness, now was the time. She onsented, and into the buggy she got and off they went, leaving the nephew behind to get home the best he could. Mann and Mrs. Smith never lost any time until they reached Esquire Davis's, just over the line, in Douglas

After getting rid of the team Mann in-formed Mrs. Smith that he had no means, and said: "Here, I am just a poor painter. You are drawing a support from the government, and if you marry me that will cease. Now and if you marry me that will cease. Now if you do not want to marry me it is all right with me, and I will carry you to the depot and buy you a ticket to Carrollton."

Mrs. Smith replied: "I care nothing for the pension, I have plenty without it, and I am willing and waiting to marry you."

'Squire Davis soon made the two one, and invited the newly married couple to spend the evening at his house, "without money and without price," and they didjso.

They forced open the front door of his store. ing Dr. Davenport's store, the thleves went to W. T. Roberts's store. They forced open the front door of his store, they then drilled into his safe and blasted it open. His safe is badly torn up. Mr. Roberts lost about $442, and Mr. C. B. Vickers, treasurer of the town council, lost $67, and $50 belonging to the postoffice here they did not get, which was in Mr. Roberts' safe.

Roberts' safe.

After the thieves got the safe blown open they went out to the railroad, just in front of the stores and rifled the cash drawers of the safe. They left all the notes, and deeds and other papers on a lumber pile, near the track. A $5 bill and a 25-cent piece were found by some one under or near a telegraph pole. All thought to have been found.

The instrument used in pressing open the doors was a two-pronged iron bar. The thieves lost two safe keys they had with them. A silver watch belonging to W. B. Stubbs was stolen, it was in Dr. Davenport's safe. It is supposed that the safe blowers have gone to-wards Newnan. Their tracks were found and measured. A reward will be offered for them. National Convention. COLUMBUS, Ga., May 8.-[Special.]-Con uctors Colmean, Brittingham, Conway and Johnson, of Columbus, and McMaster, of Augusta, and Young, of Macon, went over Americus Thursday night to assist in the oranization of the Savannah, Americus and ganization of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery conductors in the sub-division of the Order of Railway Conductors. This division is No. 284. It was organized with eighteen members, three of whom, Messrs. Gilmer, Sapp and Watson, were transferred from the Columbus division. The officers of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery division sre: W. J. Matthews, chief conductor; J. O. Lewis, assistant philos and J. M. Stokes, asceptary. istant chief; and J. M. Stokes, secretar, assistant chief; and J. M. Stokes, secretary and treasurer. Mr. J. M. Stokes was chosen delegate to the next grand division. The di-vision celebrated its organization by an excur-sion to Omaha, which netted it about $400.

The Work of the Flames. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—
The handsome country home of Mrs. Fannie Beales and Mrs. Maggie Watson, two widowed sisters, five miles from the city on the Clinton road, was destroyed by fire last night at 10 o clock. The two ladies, with a maiden sister, occupied the home, while their tenants live in jostihouses on the place. After they had all tone to bed last night the flames broke out. buthouses on the place. After they had all gene to bed last night the flames broke cut, and made such rapid progress that the ladies barely escaped with their lives. They remained under the buggy shed for some time, until friends from the neighborhood arrived with temporary relief. The loss is about $2,000, with no insurance. The sufferers are among the most highly cultured ladies of the county, and have the sympathy of every one in their loss.

DAWSON. Ga. May 8.—[Special.]—A first in their loss.

Dawson, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—A fire occurred from a kerosene lamp this afternoon, in the store of C. C. Holmes, on the east side of Main street. The stock was badly damaged by fire and water. It was fully covered by insurance. The store belonged to Dr. Farrar, and was insured.

Destroyed by Fire.

Analesvills, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—Mr E. B. Dillard, a prominent planter of Crane Eater, had his house destroyed by fire on last Wednesday. The loss is estimated at about $200. He has the sympathies of all our people is his loss.

The Art Gallery Burned.

VILLA RICA, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—The art gallery of Slaughter Stripling was burned this morning about 3 o'clock. Mr. Stripling slept in the gallery, and never woke up until the roof was falling in. He says he has no idea of the cause, unless the rats did it with matches. Destroyed by Fire.

Destroyed by Fire.

STATESBOBO, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—The Jarge hardware store of Blitch & Johnson was destroyed by fire last night. Loss, $7,500; insurance, $4,000. Cause of fire unknown. The town had a narrow escape from destruction.

Horse Thleves at Work.

Rose, Ga., May 8.—[Special.]—Horse thieves seem to be getting in their work in this community. Harralson Payne, a colored man, lost one of his mules night before last. Mr. Percy Wood the same night lost a buggy, and Mr. Tubbs also lost a set of harness. Last night Mr. W. G. Crosly, a young autorney of the Rome bar, attended a party at the home of Dr. R. V. Mitchell, on Fifth avenue. He hitched his horse by a snap weight and left him to stand. When Mr. Crosly and Miss. Ewing came out they found their horse and buggy missing. Horse Thieves at Work

Spring Place, Ga., May 8.—[Special]—There are still various opinions in regard to the murder of Hosey Jones. In regard to one of these, The Spring Place Times says:

Hosey Jones was called to his door in the lower end of this county and brutally murdered by a masked mob of cowardly assassins. He was shot in the right eye with a shotgun and fell back dead—killed in the very threshold of his own home, and in the midst of his family, the gore from his death wound making crimson the bed on which his children slept, and killed by a party of so-called kuklux, crimson the bed on which his children stept, and killed by a party of so-called kuklux, white caps, regulators and other pet names, none of which they are worthy to bear, but should be known as the infamous red-handed brotherhood of devils and outlaws, who are too mean, vile, sneaking, low down and basely corrupt to meet their new feet to be reasonable and appears to the statement of the statem fellow men face to face and avenge their per-sonal enmity: but, on the other hand, they congregate in bodies of the meanest types of humanity, having no equals in hell or on earth, and under cover of night they raid the Sentenced for Long Terms.

Washington, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—On yesterday the two negroes, Ben Allen and Anderson Mattox, were convicted of arson and sentenced, the former to seven years and the latter to seventeen. These men had burned a barn on the estate of Dubose Hill. The solicitor says it is the tenth case of incendiarism in that neighborhood, and the first they have been able to punish. The jury brought in a verdict this morning, of manslaughter against Black Huff, colored.

THE COTTON SEED OIL INDUSTRY. The Great Growth of the Business Si

BALTIMORE, Md., May 7.-The Manufact turers' Record, of this week, publishes a list of every cotton seed oil mill in the south, giving the name, location and capacity of each. This report shows that there are now 194 mills with a capital of over $20,000,000,aga forty mills with a capital of $3,500,000 in 1880. forty of these mills have established fertilizer factories in connection with their oll, using the cotton seed meal as a basis for manufacturing fertilizers. Reviewing this industry, The Manufacturers' Record says:

industry, The Manufacturers' Record savs:

It was but a few years ago when the cotton seed was an incumbrance and when the farmers had to dump them wherever they had waste place. It is true that, to some little extent, their value as a fertilizer was recognized, and here and there a few were used for that purpose; but they counted nothing in adding to the wealth of the south or to the prosperity of the southern farmer. The increase in the mills has been greater in the size and quality than in number. Many of the oil mills that were badly constructed and fitted with antiquated machinery have been abandoned, and business has been concentrated in newer and more thoroughly equipped mills. The cotton oil trust has pursued this policy and has ceased to operate a number of mills that it purchased.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 8.—[Special.]—The Coosaw case came up in court again today. By agreement of counsel on both sides, it was decided to postpone the hearing until the 25th, when it is hoped that Chief Justice Fuller and Judge Bond, together with Judge Simonton, will be able to settle the matter. Attorney General Pope submitted a motion for a remand from the federal to the state court. Several other motions on behalf of the state, and of the Coosaw Company, were also submitted. The story of the removal of the Coosaw plant to Florida, published recently in the Jackson-ville papers, does not seem to be believed here. It is possible that the Coosaw Company may send some of its plant to Florida, but it is stated send some of its plant to Florida, but it is stated on good authority that the octopus will continue its fight to its legal end.

An Accident at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., May 8.—The afternoon pleasure was sadly marred by an accident which will probably cost J. T. McFadden his life. His dity was to put up the places of each horse after the race. In attempting to cross the track to the judges' stand, after the second race, he was knocked down and kicked on the head by "The Kaiser," ridden by Jockey Allen, who was being exercised for the third race. His skull was severly fractured and his life is despaired of. First race, sever furlongs, Red Leonard won, Gymnast second, Phantom third. Time, 1:234.

SIMPLE TALKS ON THE EYE.

"The proper study of mankind is man," If this be so, then it is not amiss to consider one of the most important parts in the make-up of a man, viz. his eyes.

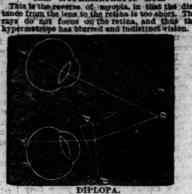

The eye is curiously and wonderfully formed, and it is the most perfect optical contrivance. It is apparently complicated, and yet it is simple! It is strong, and yet in a certain way delicate. It receives the light, allows it to pass through the aqueous humor, crystalline lens, and vitreous humor, whose function it is to properly assort and distribute the rays and throw them on the retina. Thus we have the sense of sight. The eye is called upon frequently to work two-thirds of the time, and it performs the task reliably and uncomplainingly natil tired nature can hold out no longer, then the assistance of glasses is required. Glasses are used mainly by persons for presbyopia or old sight as it is called. This occurs at the age of forty and forty-five, and is easy to correct, if glasses are used in time. In young persons the ciliary muscle contracts and makes the crystalline lens more convex, but, as one grows older, the muscle becomes less able to do this work, and the crystalline lens grows harder, and it is necessary to apply convex glasses of proper strength to correct this deficiency. A

SHOWING A PERFECT EYE.

Among those who supply glasses of all kinds, there is none so well known to the public as the optician A. K. Kawkes. Starting many years ago in a modest way, his reputation grew for making none but the best glasses. His business increased. He established one of his houses in Atlanta. This being a peculiarly favorable location for him, his traderapidly increased in volume. He then decided to concentrate his energies in building up the greatest business of this kind that has ever been carried on. His branch house at Austin, Tex., was closed and consolidated with this. He erected machinery for grinding all kinds of lenses. In accord-

The Opposition to Crisp.

Jones, of The St. Louis Republic, has done his work well. There was a time when some of the more sensitive friends of Congressman Crisp were willing to suppose that the attacks of Jones would have tendency to injure his chances for the speakership, but that time is now past. As THE CONSTITUTION predicted from the first, the attempts of Jones to cast doubts on the democracy of Judge Crisp have helped him in all quarters, and we believe that those who were rendiest to rush to the defense of the distinguished Georgian would be glad if Mannikin Jones could be induced to continue his vicious slanders.

For one thing, the slanderous attacks of Jones have caused those who are interested in the matter to look up the tariff record of Judge Crisp, and they have found it to be as bright as the brightest. Nothing whatever is found wanting in all his congressional record. It is a record that stands out with a man behind it-a man of character and conspicuous intellectual power.

To Judge Crisp was assigned the duty of managing the contested election cases for the democrats. It was a duty that required all the qualities of leadership-tact, discretion, courage and knowledge of parliamentary law that Judge Crisp had developed. From his successful contest with the tyrant Reed to his great tariff speech in Boston during the fall campaign, the Georgian has demon strated his entire fitness as a democratic leader. He caught the eye of the public,

It is no wonder that the tariff reformers of the north and east have endorsed his record. It is flawless in its democracy, and something else besides. It is the record of a man of intellectual force and power, a born leader of men. When the time comes it will be found that the factious and slandereus opposition of such men as Jones has practically solidified the democrats in his favor.

We cordially invite Jones to proceed with

The Republican Programme. When the infamous force bill was smashed we ventured the prediction that it would end the sectional policy of the republican party, so far as violent, interference with southern affairs was concerned. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat takes our view of the future course of its party, and frankly admits that the men who championed the federal election bill a year ago will never bring it to the front again. They have found that the measure is opposed by the bulk of the party, and they no longer consider it feasible. It will not get into their national platform next year. They will make the fight for reciprocity, restricted immigration, and what they call sound believe that The Globe-Democrat speaks within bounds. But the econor and other issues advocated by the republican party are in their peculiar way as dangerous as the force bill itself, and as obnoxious to the masses of our people. The goldbug policy of contracting the currency and outlawing silver cannot be made to win favor by calling it the sound money policy. A change of names cannot change things. Nor will a few sonorous platitudes about reciprocity satisfy the millions who demand the repeal of the robber tariff which made the reciprocity dodge necessary to allay to some measure public indignation. Restricted inmigration will be found a more than doubtful campaign rallying cry, because we cannot make restriction effective without watching our Mexican and Canadian frontiers as well as our seaports, to say nothing of the danger of imposing unjust conditions upon desirable immigrants in an effort to keep out the un-

Altogether, the republican programme, as outlined by our St. Louis contemporary, does not strike us as much of an improve ment upon the old sectional crusade. It is the fight of the plutocrats and protected classes against the masses, and the sweeping reforms dependent upon the triumph of democratic principles are now more than ever ssary, and no change of front by the

I am I owe to the kindly endeavors of this hard-toiling citizen, who impressed upon his children never to waste time nor money.

This is a typical American story, a imple one. The humble son of the hu cabinet maker accumulated a fortune esti-mated at $20,000,000, and gave away many millions during his lifetime. He was as proud of his ancestry as he would have been if it had swarmed with titles, and he had a right to be.

Two Cents a Mile.

The proposition to reduce the passenger rate on the railroads throughout the state from 3 to 2 cents a mile elicits a very enthuslastic communication from "Drummer, which we print elsewhere. This is not the only endorsement the proposition has received, and we have no doubt that it will meet the unanimous approval of the people of the state.

The railroads will no doubt regard the proposed reduction as inimical to their interests. We had almost said that it is natural they should do so, and yet, nothing is more unnatural than that the managers of the cor porations should deliberately place them selves in opposition to a movement which will prove to be as beneficial to their interests in the end as it will to the interests of the people. For many years the railroads have been absorbing the best business talent to be found in the land, but for some reason which the public has been unable to fathom, the broadest and brightest talent is compelled to fit itself to a narrow-gauge policy the moment it finds itself in the employ of the transportation companies. It is a pity that this should be so, and yet the time he long gone by in Georgia when the opposition of the railroads was a material obstacle in the way of any serious and sincere measure of reform. We remember how the organization of the railroad commission was fought step by step, and how all the predictions which were used as arguments against it have utterly failed. We were told that the railroad laws were inimical to the corporations, and that the organization of the commission would put an end to railway progress in the state, and drive away the millions of capital ready to be invested in new lines of transportation. We all know what the outcom has been. With a commission that meant business (as the phrase goes) from the moment of its organization, the old lines have been more prosperous than ever before, and more miles of new railway have been built since the law took charge of matters than in the whole previous history of the state.

The same mysterious reason that caused the corporations to oppose the railroad policy of the state also caused them to fight the rul ings of the commission step by step. We believe this opposition is less strenuous than it was, and perhaps friendlier; at any rate, we are no longer told that the road are to be wrecked every time the commission makes a ruling or issues an order. It is to be hoped that the changed relations which the railroad policy of the state has brought between the people and the corporations will be the means of furthering the reduction in passenger rates which the people have in

We remember, nevertheless, the protests that were made when the commission, look ing to the welfare and interest of both people and railroads, reduced the passenge rates on the trunk lines to 3 cents a mile It was thought that that reduction was tentative one, but we have reason to know that it was made with an eye to the definite results which have followed. It has proved to be a benefit not only to the people of the state, but has added materially to the incomes of the roads by increasing travel and adding to the population along the railway lines. The reduction has proved to be so successful in every way that THE CONSTIfurther reduction of the passenger rate to 2 cents a mile. Even this reduction will not be in the nature of an experiment, for the experiment has already been made on the Western and Atlantic railroad by Mr. Joseph M. Brown and it was amply justified by results. One of the results was a large increase in the income of the road from this source.

This is a matter which the railroad commission has control of, and it should at once take steps to reduce the passenger rate to cents, and if the commission has any doubte as to its duty, the legislature, soon to assem ble, should remove these doubts.

The people are for a 2-cent rate. They want something to bring the railroads closes to them. As it is the railroads are on an entirely different plane. Probably they are becoming too prosperous.

What Makes Land Valuable. There is a strong disposition in Boston to exempt personal property from taxation, and The Globe of that city, among other arguments in favor of the proposed policy,

Furthermore, it is the presence of population and personal property that gives value to land. Drive these away and what would the land be worth? Land has no value except what it absorbs from these sources. The most fertile land is worth little or nothing if there is no population and business near it. Thus it is the height of folly for farmers to drive population, capital and business away, as they surely will do if they succeed in increasing the tax burdens on movable property.

The way to "boom New England" is to welcome capital and business, not drive them away. In this view why is not the rule stated by the writer in The American Agriculturist a good one? "Never tax anything that would be a benefit to your state and that could and would run away."

This matter of taxation is one of the most important economic problems of the age. It is difficult to frame a scheme of taxation that will be estimated with the station of the station.

that will be entirely just and satisfactory, and perhaps it is impossible for human wisdom to formulate such a system. In the matter of personal property it must be admitted that taxation drives it away, or causes its owners to make very scanty returns. But it is a rather startling propos tion to say that it should bear none of the and to say that it should bear none of the public burdens stated by the land owners.

As the south is practically a new country in account of our new conditions, we can edule. We need the right kind of tion and personal property, but some nor in any way aid our progress. So it is a very big question, and ne eptional foresigns and statesmans cal with it.

THE COMMENTS of some of our so changes on the presentments of the New for-leans grand jury are marvels in their way. It seems queerly enough to be left for northern and republican newspapers to take the demo-cratic view that the people are sovereign, and, in emergencies, have the right to reassume the powers which they delegated as agents.

WITH THE GEORGIA EDITORS

The Brunswick Times of Thursday gets off this good editorial advice:

Necessarily, The Times is largely local in the field it covers. It is thoroughly identified with Brinswick But The Times wants to cultivate friendly relations between neighboring towns and Brinswick. It wants to assart when it can and Branswick. It wants to assist, when it can, and in any way it can, in their growth. The Times will not be jealous of any prosperity waled may come to other towns, but will make it scause of joy.

Now, it the editor will stick to that principle.

Now, if the eartor will stick to that principle, he will find that other towns will assist him of the meantime, it is The Constitution's mission to assist in the great work of building up the towns of Georgia, as, indeed, of those of the whole country, and our contemporary has our hearty co-operation in the work.

THE BILLVILLE BANKER.

The last issue of The Billville Banner, which is the first since last Saturday, contains the following suggestive items:

One of the best men in this county has significant. One of the best men in this county has sing-gested to us that we emigrate to the west. There is only one unfortunate feature of this: The man who stays in this county six days is likely to re-main here on the seventh. The Lord made the seventh day and, thank God! he hallowed it, and if a man remains here the first six, he is likely to remain here the seventh, because he can't get away; and on that blessed day there are no bill collectors, neither sheriffs, for they all rest on the Lord's day. n the Lord's day.

And then the editor of the Billville Banner, con

Benjamin F. Dodson, a gay and festive gen-tientian of theatrical airs, is wanted in Atlanta. Dodson played the management of the Scott Theriton combination to the tune of tome-thing like $75, and besides skipped a several weeks old board bill at the National hotel. If the detectives can locate him, Dodson will be brought back to Atlanta and prose-cuted.

He has rendered himself liable to severa criminal charges, and those whom he has swindled will make him sweat for his dirty

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK. Beport of Dun & Co., Showing the State of Trade.

New York, May 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The financial markate of the world have "la grippe," the disease imported from Russia, and a New York variety by way of review of trade says: The financial markets or the world have "la grippe," the disease imported from Russia, and a New York variety by way of London. The struggle to sustain Russian securities against the disfavor of the Rothschilds, the demand for gold from German bankers, and the threatened withdrawal of Russian gold from deposits in England, France and Germany, account for much of the unusual movement of species which has been in progress. But accounting for it does not stop it, and the actual outgo of about 30,000,000 in April and not far from $0,000,000 in April and not far from $0,000,000 in April and not far from $0,000,000 already, for mine days of May, has caused some weakness in the markets. The advance of one-half of per cent at once in the rate charged by the Bank of England is rightly regarded as a notification that England means to fortify itself in this great struggle by drawing gold from New York. This sudden demand comes at a season when this market can spare gold with less inconvenience than at any other, and the continued isaues of silver notes make the withdrawal from circulation less felt, though the fact that forty-seven per cent of the customs recelpts at New York are now in silver paper, shows that the remedy cannot last always.

May starts off with a great plunge in speculative prices which has for some week's been anticipated. Wheat fell 15 cents in as many days, much to the disgust of men who have been predicting a famine before July. It is still a fact that the possible demand next year, on account of the failure of crops in France and elsewhere, has to meet an exceptionally favorable prospect, here, whills the export demand for wheat this year, even since prices have broken, is not large enough to prevent the carrying over of a great musold surplus next July, Sales here last week were but $5,000,000, but with net decline of $5% cents, and while corn has declined 34, cents in sympathy, and many speculators have suffered, sales have been but 11,000,000 bushels.

New Orleans reports a fair trade, with cotton in moderate demand at somewhat better prices, and sugar was active, but lower. At Savannah trade falls off some, but prospects are bright, and at Jacksonville business is brisk and hopeful in all branches. coming rather too "upply" of late. As President lownsend, of the Southern Travelers' Association, Townsend, of the Southern Travelers' Association, reported, it was impossible for the association to get a respectable hearing from the railroads on the application of the association to have the railroads issue £000-mile books for the use of the members of the association. Of course, the railroads had a perfect right to refuse the request of the association, but they did not even do that. The committee appointed to confer with the railroads found it almost impossible to find anybody to talk to. They were referred from one road to another, and from one man to another, and every reference seemed to be encouraging, but so far as practical results are concerned, the association might as well have been conferring with the railroads brakemen of the state. "We had over 5,000 front feet represented at that meeting, and the expression and senti-ment were both against the double track. This morning Colonel W. D. Grant, Mr. Dougherty, Major Maddox and others, have joined us, Major Mandox and others, have joined us, adding over 1,000 feet to the opposition."

Mr. Cabaniss then argued closely and carefully against the electric line, asserting that there was not room enough on the street for a double track and two carriages at the same time. He then referred to the present condi-

the city has not kept its contract."

Mr. Cabaniss declared that the people at the meeting had resolved for a double horse car

"That's what the people want," he said,
"and that's what we should have. This is no question of finance, but a question of right. I live out there, but I am not one of the nabobs, but an humble resident. If we want horse cars, what right has the city to force a double electric line on us?"

The speaker continued at length, presenting his case in a well rounded mannet.

Major Livingston Mims, in one of his inimitable speeches, followed Mr. Cabaniss. His argument was sound and logical and his plea for the horse car was eloquent.

"A preacher," he said, "once said that it was easy to go to hell, but the devil to get back. So it is with us. We live on Peachtree and take a great pride in it. So does every one. But its hard to get what we want."

The major then referred to the horses and mules used on the line, and asserted that he, if he were a member of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, would have every one connected with the line arrested.

"Peachtree residents," he said, "are a long-suffering, patient people. Now, when this double electric line is built, who will be benefited? There's millions in it for the company, but nothing for the people on the street. My advice to you is to watch this soulless corporation."

Mr. Castleman came next and made a strong

"We don't want one of the drend of the hurt—"
"How many wives have you?" asked some one, interrupting the speaker.
There was a general smile.
"Iown up," said Mr. Castleman, "but its just as I say."
Mr. J. S. Raine followed with a strong plea against the electric car.

Mr. Hurt spoke at length for the two-track against the electric car.

Mr. Hurt spoke at length for the two-track electric line.

"The trouble is," he said, "these gentlemen don't know what they are talking about. There's no danger, as they assert, in the current. I'd like to ask Major Mims if he knows the laws of electricity."

"No, no one knows. Not even you, Mr. Hurt, "was the reply.

This provoked a merry laugh.

"The truth is," said Mr. Hurt, "Major Mims is utterly ignorant.—"

"Not utterly," was the answer.

"Now the major talks about soulless corporations," went on Mr. Hurt. "I want to know if he is prominently connected with the Northesstern Tariff Association?"

"When I have more time," answered the major laughing, "I'll discuss that question with Mr. Hurt and send all you gentlemen a copy of my speech."

"Again the laugh was on Mr. Hurt.

Mr. Hurt continued his argument for the petition, claiming that the double electric track system was the only one at all feasible. He declared that there was an abundance of room on the street.

"But." he said, "I'l you won't give us that declared that there was all sounds on the street.

"But," he said, "if you won't give us that we will have to take what you give us."

"Will you put on a double track for horse sars?" asked Mr. Raine.

"No, sir," was the emphatic answer.

Judge George Hillyer secured the floor and read a petition from residents on Trinity arenue, asking that the line be put down on that avenue from Washington street to Capitol avenue.

"We have agreed to that," said the chair-

"Yes, but upon the condition," said the judge, "that Washington street is not to be abandoned. We want that grant without any conditions."
"The two are separate," answered the chairman.

Mr. Oglesby argued for the Washington

Mr. Oglesby argued for the Washington street line.

By agreement the consideration of the Washington street line, the Capitol avenue line and the Trinity avenue line was post-poned by the committee until next Monday, when it will be taken up again.

The committee went into executive session and Mr. Turner arose, saying:

"I went to that Peachtree meeting last night. It was a large one. But it was the wording of that resolution which caught the trowd. That asphalt took them away from the double track electric oars. I'm satisfied that is what the people want, so I move to alopt the first section of that report."

Mr. Hendrix was with Mr. Turner.

Mr. Woodward opposed the motion and also for further time. He declared that the tonice of the people on that street should be considered.

The extension of the report was adopted. But it is such dead of the rest of the report was adopted. But it is such dead by Mr. Turner, who moved that is street car lines be required to defray one-wird the expense of rebuilding any bridge rer which they pass.

These sections of the report were adopted: The street railroad companies to put the said reces so coupled in good condition, and to keep him so, for the width that is or may hereafter be quired by ordinance.

The rails to be used shall be approved by the extric light and street railroad committee and early engineer.

Should any permanent improvement be hereafter put down on any of the streets hereby granted, whether permanently improved now or not, then the said company shall be required to pay their pro rata as may be required by law.

Work to be completed in twelve months. That the right to condemn such portion of said lines as may be necessary for the purpose of entering the central portion of the city is hereby reserved for the distance as now required by law. That that portion of the petition asking that the paving law be amended be referred to the legislative committee, so that they may investigate as to whether the paving laws should be amended. That should said company build on any street which is faid with belgian blocks, then said company shall pay for one track as required by law.

Action on Mr. Rice and Mr. Woodward's amendment was postponed fill next Monday.

LOOTING THE RUINS.

A Disgraceful Scene at a Pittaburg

PITTSBURG, May 8.—The ruins of Tues night's conflagration were looted by a mob of men, women and children today. During the est part of the day, when the streets were citement prevailed. There were no police on the scene, and the crowd knew that buried beneath the ruins were thousands of dollars, worth of goods, eatables, etc. Hun-garians and Italians composed the greater portion of the crowd and they ransacked everything in sight. They were provided with sacks and baskets to carry their booty away and it looked as though a system-atic raid had been planned and was hurriedly being executed.

Never since the riots of 1877 have such scenes taken place in Pittsburg. The interior of the Heoveler building proved a rich field for exploration. Risking their lives under the tattering walls, women, wrinkled with age, dirty-faced children and hard-countenanced men threw hot bricks aside and extricated from the debris thousands of hams, cans of lard and many other like articles.

The crowd numbered several hundred souls, of some specially desirable article. Firemen, who were still at work on the ruins, finally drove the looters off by turning the hose on them. Hundreds of dollars' worth of goods

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 8.-By two for geries brought to light in Charlotte, N. C., the Merchants' National bank of this city loses $835, and the State Bank of Florida $750. A man calling himself T. C. Kellogg came here about three weeks ago from St. Augustine, where he had been following the occupation of where he had been following the occupation of souvenir artist, painting sketches on sea shells, bric-a-brac and sometimes on canvas. He obtained employment here at the Hotel Placid, and last Saturday asked John B. Moss, fruit dealer, to identify him at the Merchants' bank. Moss did so and the teller cashed a check for $833 without hesitation. It was drawn by S. Witkowski, a large dry goods dealer of Charlotte, N. C., whose credit is rated high on the Merchants' and Farmers' National bank of Charlotte. It was certified across the face by this bank and made payable to Kellogg's order. The bank in this city subsequently received a telegram saying that the check was a forgery. This afternoon she manager of the State bank in this city, said he had cashed a check almost similar in form for $750. Kellogg, after getting his money, $1,585, left on an evening train for Savannah, and all traces of him have been lost.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 8.—Foreigners are coming into the coke region in bulk, and, as an operator said today, he can turn 3,000 men into the region in twenty-four hours, but he cannot shelter them. A peculiarity about all this wholesale importation is that the strikers are as firm and unbroken as ever and when directed by the sheriff to move, they calmly moved out of their house to roost on fences or gather in a huddle to watch the imported men move into the houses they have so recently vacated. Their calmness may be the confidence of ultimate victory, but it savors more of the apathy of despair. idly Reporting.

Boston, May 8.—A cablegram was received from the American consul at Florence, Italy, yesterday, at the office of W. W. Jacques, in this city, stating that the reported mobbing of Jacques is not really as serious as at first supposed, and that the affair occurred in this manner:

Jacques and his family were out riding, and, happening to drive through a street where some arrests were being made, and stones and other missiles being thrown at the arresting party, their equipage was struck by some of the flying bricks. The cablegram stated that one of the stones crashed through a window of the carriage and struck one of the occupants, but the message does not state who.

Yesterday morning he tried some daring schemes, and with a drawn pistol threatened the lives of several people.

He now reste in the county jail, and, although badly shot, is in a fair way to recovered.

Mr. E. S. McCandless, out on Peachtree. No one was at the bouse but two negro women, one was at the house but two negro women, both of whom were out on the front veranda. The negro seemed familiar with the premises, and evidently knew that no one but servants were at home. He sneaked up the back stairs, and, opening a door, entered a bedroom. One of the servants, who had just left the room a few minutes before, returned, and, as she did so, the man stepped out. umped down the steps, making off as fast as he could run.

Nothing was done about this, and nothing was missed from the house.

The negro didn't seem to mind being discovered, and a short while afterward entered the house of Mr. W. B. Lowe, just next door. den were at work on electric bells stairs, and it was while they were off that the

In the negro's pack was found all that was taken from the servant's room at Mr. Lowe's. There was only about $2 in money.

A watch, two rings, the pistol the negro used and two gold dollars were all identified by Mr. P. J. Wallace. His house on Simpson street was burglarized last Tuesday.

A watch was also found which was taken from 31 Merritts avenue hast Wednesday.

Webster's work amounts to highway robbery, and was characterized by utter reck-lessness with a certain amount of shrewdness. He denies having been in McCandless's house, and says he went in Mr. Lowe's to give a note to the servant. He was carried to the jail yesterday afternoon, where he was again visited by Dr. Griffin, who pronounces the hurt not very serious as it stands now.

Webster's house was searched, and a watch, a pair of opera glasses and other articles found.

A procession composed of United States cavalry, state troops, Grand Army posts, with the local fire department, escorted them to a gaily decorated stand, opposite the main entrance of the capitol, where Governor Wiley made an address of welcome an behalf of the state, and Mayor Pinney on behalf the city. Responses were made by the president, Postmaster General Wansunkee and Secretary Rusk, after which the president, assisted by public school children, planted a live oak tree at a prominent point of the capitol grounds.

The entire party then entered the capitol building, and the chief executive held a public reception, during which he shook ands with nearly 1,500 people. The introductions were made by the governor and mayor. While these ceremonies were in progress, Mrs Harrison, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Dimmick and Mrs. Russell Harrison were holding a ladies' reception in the parlors of the Sherman house, which were beautifully decorated with flowers and flags for the occasion.

MUSICAL MATTERS.

EVERAL DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAIN-

ent to Mr. Simpson—The Pupils of Mr. Briscoe's School.

Miss Amie and Mary Renderson, of Knozville, Tenn., were given a complimentary musicale on Thursday evening by Mr. Isaac Mayer, at his home on Trinity avenub. The evening was a most enjoyable one. Miss Amie Henderson, who posenjoyable one. Miss Amie Henderson, who possesses a remarkably sweet soprane voice, greatly delighted those present with two choice selections from Faust. Miss Henderson is greatly admired whereversake is known, and a more thoroughly versatile lady one a-ldom meets. Mr. Simpson, of Columbus, O., added largely to the evening's enjoyaent by his performance on the violin. Miss Mary Henderson, who is decidedly one of the most accomplished pianists in the state, was beartily appreciated for her artistic ability as a piano soloist. Mr. Sissons's pure tenor was much admired. Mr. Mayer, who needs no introduction to the public, played, as is his custom, most charmingly. Miss Jennie Dittler, one of Mr. Mayer's pupils, was the recipient of many congratulations for the manner in which she gave a difficult plano solo.

Those present were: The Misses Henderson, Miss Loyd, Miss Dittler, Mr. and Mrs. Flynn, Mrs. O'Brien, Mr. Orchard, Mr. Simpson, Mr. Hess, Mr. Dittler, Mr. Lofton, Mr. Dudley and Mr. Sissons.

Mr. Sissons.

The entertainment given last evening by Mr. Ed Powell and Miss Ella Powell was a delightful one, and a charming artistic success. The guests were musicians and music lovers, and, although there was not any formal programme, the musical property and their part and the present all did their part people present all did their part people. was not any formal programme, the musical people present all did their part in making the evening a perfect one. Those present were: Professor Mayer and Mr. Simpson, of Columbus, O.; Mr. John O'Donnelly, Mr. Iouis Hess, Mr. Nornan, Dr. Spencer, Major and Mrs. Mins, Captain and Mrs. Gay, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Peel, Miss Hahr, Miss Howell, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Venable, Miss Venable, Miss Northen, Mr. and Mrs. Rucker, Miss Stocker, Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, Mr. and Krs. Rob Riley, Mrs. Cox, Professor Howell, Mrs. Ohl.

Miss Sallie Tomlinson, a charming young lady of McDonough, is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Emmie Elder, a popular young lady of Madison, is visiting friends in the city.

A very enjoyable reception was held at the home of Mrs. Averill, 32 Highland avenue, last night, given by the lady's Sunday school class from the Church of the Balance. hurch of the Redeemer.

It was rather unique from the fact that the entire affair was arranged and conducted by elever young men, not a young lady even assisting in receiving.

The gentlemen Messrs. Ed Kirk, Fred Bradt, George Ellis, Alfred Averill, Mac Rathbun, Homer McDaniel, Ellis Gray, Virgil Davis, Fletcher Davis, Arnold Jacot, Burdette Bosard

and A. Munson.

The beautiful lawn presented a splendid appearance with numerous Chinese lanterns and the house was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Piano Solo—Miss Mary Wolf.
Messrs. Ellis Gray and Homer McDaniel then gave recitations which showed decided talent.
An observation party was the means of continued interest and enjoyment. To the successful young lady a very pretty bonbonnier box was awarded; while the fortunate gentleman received a handsome tortoise shell paper cutter.
An evening affording greatest pleasure was closed with an elegant supper.

Mrs. Colonel Albert Howell chaperoned a very delightful party of picnickers out at Colonel Frank O'Brien's summer home, Sans Souci, on the Chattahoochee river, Thursday. An elegant fish fry was served by Colonel O'Brien at 2 o'clock. The party returned in the large Kimball wagon, having spent a most delightful day. Among those present were Mrs. Howell, Misses Eva Bell, Susie Hook, Maggle Hook, Stella Knott, and Messrs. V. R. Davis, Jennings, Swift, Slaughter, Christian, Thompson and Dennis.

Last night, at the new music hall of the Freyer & Bradley Music Company, Professor I. M. Mayer gave a delightful concert in hono: of his friend and guest, Mr. Harold Simpson, of Columbus, O. Mr. Simpson is a violinist of note, and his stay in Atlanta has been a source of great pleasure to the music-loving people of the city. In the concert last night the participants, besides Mr. Mayer and Mr. Simpson, were Miss Mary Henderson, plano; Mr. William Thomas Sissons, tenor; Master Edwin Haas, plano. The programme was as follows: win Haas, piano. The programme was as follows

A Most Beautiful Wedding Ceremony at

NEWNAY, Ga., May 7.—[Special.]—For some day past Newnan society has been in a flutter of excitement over the approaching marriage of Mr. J. P. Leverett and Miss Ella Mildred Mo-Guire, two of our most popular young people The marriage last night was one of the most beautiful wedding ceremonies ever witnessed in Newnan.

Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony friends and spectators began arriving at the Methodist church, which was soon crowded to its utmost capacity, while a large number remained standing in the vestibule, being unable to obtain seats at all.

mained standing in the vestibule, being unable to obtain scats at all.

The ushers were Mesers. A. R. Burdett, J. E. Dent, Jr., Tom Joinson and H. H. North, who were the regulation dress suits and attended so their duties in a most admirable manner.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the coming of the bridal party was heralded by the entrance of the chorus girls and their escorts, who were as follows: Misses Maud Scroggin, Ella Goodrum, Jimmie Lou Thompson, Stella Fouse, Lizzie Dent and Olile Askew. They were escorted by Mesers. H. A. Hall, H. S. Banta, G. R. Black, J. E. Pincon, George Rawly and E. M. Cole. Mrs. A. J. Smith, presided at the organ, and as the chorus girls proceeded up the alsie, Tannheuser's grand march was randered with spieadid effect, the organist being scompanied on the cornet by Mesers Y. C. Thompson and E. N. Cole.

Guire. Little Misses Terence and Mildred Carpenter, nieccs of the bride, acted as flower girls, and brought up the rear.

The bride was costumed in an elegant Reddern dress of cream satin, trimmed in duchesse lace, with diamond ornaments. She wore as floral ornaments a wreath of lilles of the valley and orange blossoms.

The bridge and groom took positions just behind a floral arch, from the top of which depended a curtain of filmy white. At this moment the curtains were parted and the young couple advanced to a position immediately under the arch and faced the audience. Rev. F. G. Hughes then stepped forward and in a brief but impressive manner, spoke the words that made them man and wife, while the subdued notes of the organ seemed to sing whispers of coming happiness and a life of love As the last words were spoken and the ceremony concluded, the organ pealed again in loudest notes, and the little flower girls went forward strewing fragrant emblems in the pathway of the happy couple as they left the church. The attendants followed, and in a few moments the waiting carriages had wheeled the bridal party away to the residence of the bride's brother-inlaw, Mr. J. T. Carpenter, where an elegant reception, but those who were so fortunate as to be present were entertained most handsomely by the bride's sister, Mrs. Carpenter.

The bride has long been a social favorite in Newman, and combines many qualities that go to make up a charming womanhood, while the groom is one of Newman's most popular and estimable young men. Their hosts of friends wish them much joy and prosperity in the new relation which they have assumed.

Woolbridge had delivered his server be announced the candidates for marrimony. mon, he announced the candidates for matrimony would now come in. Everybody was surprised to see Mr.Charles H.Osborn,one of our wealthiest and best citizens, step to the alter, leading Mrs. Sarah Askew, a lady of equal prominence among a large circle of friends. The marriage was a genuine

Mass., were united in marriage.

The young lady is well known and has many friends in Atlanta, who will join with those the lady made-during a brief sojourn in Griffin, in wishing for her long life and happiness.

The church was converted into a veritable bed

After the marriage Mrs. Giles Bishop tendered the bride and groom a reception, from 5 until 8 o'clock. At 8:42 clock the young couple left for Bavannah, from thence to New York, Boston, and finally Rochester, their future home.

This marriage smacks somewhat of romance, the parties meeting for the first time in Europe, where each was pursuing studies in their respective professions, music and physics. After returning to America they again met, renewing former acquaintance, which culminated in their marriage here on Tuesday.

Friday night, at Patterson hall, a large and select audience of Griffin's best society attended an opereta, given by Mrs. H. W. Hasselkus. Mrs. Hasselkus deserves, and always receives, liberal patronage when she gives an entertainment.

A Large Number of Prominent People Attacked.

London, May 8.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that the Marquis di Rudini, Italian premier, has signed a treaty renewing the dreibund for five years.

Each of the large hospitals in London has an average of 100 cases of influenza. There are signs of continued increase of the epidemic. Several more members of the house of commons have been attacked. Six of the usual occupants of the treasury bench were absent yesterday. Prince Christian and Count Hatzfeldt, German ambassador, were unable to attend a dinner given at the German hospital. The duchess of Marlborough, Justice Romer and a host of public officials are among those affected. The earl of Powis died last night.

VIRGINIA'S DEBT. A Prospect of a Meeting of the Commis

RICHMOND, Va., May 8 .- While the Virginia state debt commission, appointed by the legislature of 1890 with a view of the settlement of the state debt with foreign bondholders, has never held a session, Governor McKinney, who heads the commission, has recently received a communication from the Olcott committee, of New York, asking him to convene the same with a view of having a conference.

The governor, who is absent in New York, has replied to the committee, stating in substance that as soon as the provisions of the act, under which the Virginia commission is to treat, shall have been complied with, one of which is that the bondholders or their representatives shall deposit bonds to the amount of $1,000,000, as an index of good faith, the Virginia commission is ready to confer.

Further correspondence is looked for from the New York committee, and should the two commissions meet in the near future and agree upon a price of settlement of the state debt, their action will have to be ratified by the Objections to the New Law About North Carolina Textbooks.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 8.—[Special.]—There is much condemnation of the late legislature for the passage of an act requiring the use in all public schools of textbooks on the effects of alcoholic drinks and narcotics, this condemnation arising from the discovery that the act requires one-fourth of the contents of such textbooks to be on this subject and that the books which meet the requirements are owned by the American Company, which is a trust. The passage of the act was secured by Mrs. Hunt, of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and some leading newspapers are charging plainly that it was jobbery. The state board of education today discussed the matter, but adjourned until the 25th instant, when it will be settled.

Two thousand people crowded the big tent last evening.

And it was a most interested audience After announcing that there would be special services for railroad men Sunday evening, Rev. J. B. Culpepper began his seri It was simply a continuation of the subject on which he spoke Thursday evening. The question of compromises. He handled it with consummate skill and effectiveness. He took, as an illustration, Pharaoh's promises to the children of Israel, and how the wicked king of the Egyptians made them promise after promise and failed to fulfill any of them.

From that he launched out into the subject and handled sin and satan without gloves. He told of a young man whom he saved from the results of the commission of a misdemeanor on a railway train near St. Louis. He begged the young man, as he got off the train, in the name of his Master, not to drink any

"It's no use! It's no use! I can't quit it."
"That young man," said the preacher,
"was in the same condition as a great many others. He thought that the devil had com plete control of his soul and his appetite. That is the great tropble with the world today."

Then he told of an old farmer who started to carry a load of hay to market. The first day the wagon turned over and wet the hay. It took him the balance of that day to get it righted. The second day there was another accident, and again was the trip to market de-

On the third day the barn door fell down and caught the old man under it. He was badly bunged up and had to call for his wife to help him to get out.
"In a case like this, what would you do?"

"I think you might mildly express yourself on this occasi "And." added the preacher, "it is a time for us to express ourselves most vehemently!" He then related an incident of a man who had become crazed with drink, and walking from the door of the saloon across the street to his own home, he saw his little child sitting in front of the door, raised his foot and deliber-ately kicked its brains out. Turning on his heel he went back to the saloon and called for a drink. His wife had just discovered her dead baby, and clasping it in her arms, followed her husband to the #sa-

By some strange fatality, just as as the mur derer raised the glass to his lips the blood gushed from his nose and mouth, and he reeled, tottered and fell dead.

"You devil!" cried the poor woman as she laid her dead baby on the counter. "You have murdered my husband and my child," and she sprang at the saloon keeper in the madness of One of his best stories was of two old fellows who went to town and got on a frolic. They secured rooms at the hotel, each occupying a

"What are we going to do about it, Tom?"
"Guess we'd better kick 'em out, John."

"Tom," gasped one of them, at last, "I've kicked mine out.

"Yes, John," panted the other, "and my feller's kicked me out!"

"That is just she way of men who are fools enough to get drunk. It would be a good thing if they would all kick each other out," added the speaker, and there was many a hearty amen from the audience.

The preacher pitched into dancing and social disipations, and in words of burning eloquence uttered his denunciation against world-livers and the frivolities of fashionable life. Speaking of the precedity of children, he said: "You cowardly mothers! Just as soon as one of your boys is big enough to stick his legs in forked cloth, you turn him loose on the streets of Atlanta just to show the world what you have done.

"I wish God would scare some of you parents so that you couldn't sleep a wink.

"We are going out! We are going—going out! We are carrying our wives and children with us. I want 10,000 conversions in this town. I am troubled that the picnic season is upon us tomorrow, for I wanted to preach to 2,500 children tomorrow, and now it will be a week before I can get to them!

"God bless you. I have done just like I did last night. I will let you go pretty soon. Listen, for one minute, to what I am going to tell you. When I came here peoples aid to me, 'Hit whisky and hit it hard, but don't forget covetousness.' Barkeepers sell whisky for the money that is in it, not because they love the business.

There were a large number who came forward and expressed a desire to lead a better life when the sermon was concluded, and the singing and exhortations began.

There were many touching and pathetic passages in this part of the services, when strong men came forward and with tears in their eyes avowed their intention of endeavoring to lead a better life.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The stock market today was still a hesitating one, the two principal influences upon it pulling in opposite directions. The course of prices, therefore, was feverish and unsettled through upon it pulled in opposite directions. The course of prices, therefore, was feverish and unsettled throughout the day, while in the absence of the pressure to sell there was an inclination to return to dullness. The market gave evidence also of becoming narrower, the number of stocks traded in being smaller than a few weeks ago, while a few leading shares monopolised the larger portion of the business done. The favorites of the Chicago party still lead in both activity and strength, St. Paul and Chicago Gas being the most prominent, but the heaviest movements today were in low-priced shares, and Chicago and Eastern Illinois and Tennessee Coal were specially weak. The market opened with a spurt of activity on the selling of stocks by both London and traders, but there was a goodjupport accorded, and the fractional losses sustained were recovered while the cessation of the pressure to sell resulted in comparative duliness and stagnation in prices, which were held at about the best figures until well into the afternoon. Further demoralization was caused by the announcement of extraordinarily large shipments of gold. The selling was heavy for both the Chicago people and local operators, and as the amount to be sent on Saturday grew, the prices reached still lower figures. There was no cessation of selling and the losses extended to large amounts in almost all the active stocks, those which suffered most being Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Missouri Pacific, Lackawana, Rock Island, Burlington and Tennessee Coal. On the other hand, Lake Shore, Union Pacific, Lackawana, Rock Island, Burlington and Tennessee Coal. On the other hand, Lake Shore, Union Pacific, well held and their losses are measured by fractions well held and their losses are measured by fractions well held and their losses are measured by fractions and Wheeling and Lake Eric stocks were remarkably well held and their losses are measured by fractions only. In the others, however, there were generally large fractions. The downward movement met with large fractions. The downward movement met with no check and the market closed active and weak at the lowest prices of the day. throughout the cotton belt, and the receipt of further advices reporting damage to the growing crop from drouth and cold weather, caused the market to close at the best prices of the day, and the highest so far recorded on this advance. Receipts at the interior towns promise to be 11,000 bales and the plantation movement about 28,000 bales, against 6,400 bales last year. This somewhat under earlier estimates of the latter. New Orleans shows an advance of about 8 points over last evening. Spot sales there are 3,500 bales. Shipments from Bombay show a deficiency of 281,000 bales since January 1, and previous advices of a deficiency from that quarter of 400,000 bales are fully confirmed.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, May 8.—The day was a lively one in wheat pit trading. Prices plunged up and down with a rapidity to satisfy the most exacting devotees of action in the market. The market opened in a weak, almost panicky condition, and was nervous and flighty with a weak undertone all day. So much grain came on the market at the start that July, which closed at 90% oyesterday, and which opened at 98% othis morning, broke, with one or two minor reactions, to 97%. At this point the bears began to take their profits, and there was some buying against puts. The shorts took fright and began to over, with the result of lifting the price to 99%. Representatives of New York houses then began to sell, big local bears began to put out short wheat again, and the market collapsed. This time it touched 97% to but subsequently made a rally to 99% and broke to 97% e again. The close was firm at 98% c.

made a rally to 99c and broke to 97%c again. The close was firm at 98%c.

Corn was active, fluctuating frequently within an established range, the sentiment prevailing being early about equally divided. There was no new or important feature presented, the market sympathising with wheat to a great extent. July opened at 61%c, sold off to 80%c, rallied and closed at 69%. Toward the close of the day several lines of long property came on the market, shippers selling freely, which induced other sellings, the local crowd taking advantinduced other sellings, the local crowd taking advantage of the situation, and the sharpest break of the day was the result.

Oats were rather dull and steady for a time, but when corn broke that cereal receded in sympathy with it, going from 46%c for July to 45%c.

Provisions weakened early. Thereafter offerings were scarce, the demand good and prices improving until near the close, when they eased off with corn and wheat. The close was at slightly lower prices than yesterday.

Mr. Mitchell Paulk, of Irwin county, has a son only three and a half years old who nosesses the strength of an eighteen-year-old boyand has already a well-developed mustache. His muscles have developed wonderfully, and when his mother undertakes to spank him she has about all she can handle, although she is by no means a weak woman. The little fellow's intelligence also is rapidly developing, and if he keeps on at the present rate until he attains the age of majority, south Georgia will have produced a man with the wisdom of ing, and it he keeps on at the present rate until he attains the age of majority, south Georgia will have produced a man with the wisdom of Solomon and the strength of Samson.

THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1891.

Reported for The Constitution by Peeples and Stevens, Reporters of the Supreme Court of Georgia.

Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad Co. v. Wooten, Hill & Wooten. Carriers. Railroads. Damages. Negligence. Before Judge Eve. City court of Hichmond county.

Bleckley, C. J.—Though goods awed by a common carrier from the perils of a freshet were damaged by passing through the freshet, yet if some not saved are unaccounted for, and it is not shown that the freshet caused their loss, or what their condition was when they disappeared, a recovery for their value may be had against the carrier without deducting anything for conjectural damage which they may have sustained by reason of the freshet before the loss occurred.

Hawks etal. v. Sallors. Deeds. Title. Evidence. Consideration. Trusts. Ejectment. Before Judge Hutchins. Jackson superior court. Simmons, J.—A deed from a father-in-law to his son-in-law, made in consideration of $500 "to him in hand paid by said Sallors, less $200 for the love and affection the said White bears to his daughter, Nartha A. Sallors, donates out of the $500, at and before the sealing and delivery of these presents," and conveying the premises to the son-in-law with warranty title, vests the title in him for his own use, no other use being declared. No trust results in favor of the daughter, and while parol evidence would be admissible in a proceeding to reform the ceed if it does not execute the intention of the parties, such evidence is not admissible upon the trial of an action of ejectment brought by the daughter against a person in possession of the land.

New trial. Before Judge Roney. Richmond superior court.

Lumpkin, J.—1. A voluntary deed from a husband to his wife dated November 19, 1887, and witnessed by two unofficial persons, was handed by the maker to the clerk to record February 9, 1888. The latter refused to record it for want of legal attestation. Whereupon the maker acknowledged it was his deed, and the clerk signed his ame officially under the usual attestation clause, "signed, sealed and delivered in presence of us," and recorded it: Held, that this record was not notice of the execution of the deed at the time it bears' date to a creditor of the maker who extended credit on the faith of the property covered by the deed after its execution and before record.

2. When a course of dealings begins between parties, and credit is extended by one to the other on the faith of particular property, the legal presumption is that this property is relied on for all credit given while the dealings continue, until there is some notice or agreement to the contrary, such dealings covering a period of only a few souths.

3. The verdict being inevitably right in any Nonths.

The verdict being inevitably right in any New of the case as presented, it was error to grant a new trial.

2. An indictment charging a sale as made to a person named, will be supported by evidence that it was made to him through his servant or messenger, and the latter need not be mentioned by name or otherwise in the indictment.

W. M. Howard, solicitor-general, by J. H. Lumpkin, contra. Ellison & Son v. Lucas & McDuffie. Partnership.

Lumpkin, J.-1. Two members composing a partnership may unite in selling-the entire assets thereof in payment of debts due individually by such members, and the sale. If made in good faith and without fraud, will be valid against creditors of the firm, notwithstanding the insolvency of the partnership, provided the transaction is not, as to any one of the partners, ohnoxious to the statute against involuntary conveyances by insolvent debtors. If the value of one partner's share in the partnership property considerably expeal the law, and evidence of such fact should not have been admitted,
2. In an action against a railroad company for the negligent killing of a cow, evidence that the company had at different times paid other persons for cattle killed by its trains at the same place was irrelevant and inadmissible.
3. When the evidence shows conclusively that the servants of a railroad company used all ordinary and reasonable care and diligence to prevent the killing of a certain cow, a verdict in favor of the owner for the value of the animal is contrary to law and evidence, and should be set aside.

the statute against involuntary conveyances by insolvent debtors. If the value of one partner's share in the partnership property considerably exceeds in amount his individual debt settled by the sale, it amounts in law to a donation by him of such excess to his partner.

2. Where it appeared that two partners composing a firm conveyed all the property of the firm to a third person in satisfaction of their own individual debts, the consideration being recited as a given sum of money, and it being admitted that the purchaser paid full value for the property, these facts are prima facte evidence that the consideration named is the actual value of the propercy, and a verdict which, in effect, finds to the contrary, should be set aside.

Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Candler et al. Liens. Railroads. Verdicts. Judgments, Be-fore Hon. G. H. Prior, judge pro hac vice. Hall

Liens. Railroads. Verdicts. Judgments. Before Hon. G. H. Prior, judge pro hac vice. Hall superior court.

Lunpkin, J.—l. By section 1979 of the code, contractors to build railroads are entitled to liens upon such railroads, but each lien is upon the whole railroad to which it applies. There is no provision of law allowing a contractor to set up and enforce a lien upon a part of any railroad, though such part may be all of the road which he constructed or aided to construct.

2. As, under section 1990 of the code, the verdict must set forth the lien yllowed, and the judgment and execution must be awarded accordingly, a verdict and judgment which attempt to set up and enforce a lien upon a specified portion of a railroad are void upon the face as far as the contractor's special lien is concerned.

3. A verdict describing the lien intended to be allowed thereby in these terms: "That the plainiff have a lien as a contractor to build railroad upon that part of the Gainesville and Dahlonega railroad from its terminus in the city of Gainesville, to the Chattahoochee river in Hall county, including its right of way, roadbed, depot grounds and all other property belonging to said railroad company, for the sum aforesaid," etc., does not set up a lien upon the whole railroad referred to, but only attempts to do so upon the part extending from Gainesville to the Chattahoochee river. Simpson v. Earle. Judgments. Promissory notes. Landlord and tenant. Before Judge Gober. Cobb superior court.

Simmons, J.—An action by the payee against the makers of a promissory note which states on its face that it was given for rent, is in order for judgment at the first term of the court. And in declaring upon such a note, it is not essential to the validity of the action that the declaration should expressly aver the relation of landlord and tenant, more especially where no motion to set aside the judgment was made until after the lapse of more than seven years.

Morton et al. v. The Frick Co. Trover. Verdict.
Title. Notice. Record. Protice. Before
Judge Gober. Militon superior court.
Lumpkin, J.-1. In an action of trover, where no plea was filed save that of the general issue, and on the trial there was no evidence as to the value of the property, and the plaintiff, who was the seller, elected under section 3664 of the code to take a verdict for the property and its hire, defendants were entitled to no deduction from the amount of hire on account of partial payments made to the plaintiff by them or by their predecessor in the purchase, the plaintiff having retained title in himself as security for the payment of the purchase money.

Reberson v. State. Criminal law. Manslaughter. Evidence. Verdict. Practice. Before Judge Hutchins. Ocenee superior court Simmons, J.—I. The evidence was sufficient to sustain the verdict of voluntary manslaughter.

2. A ground for new trial complaining of the admission of evidence but not setting out what objection was made to the evidence at the time it was introduced, or that any objection was then made, cannot be considered. Judgment affirmed.

B. E. Thrasher, for plaintiff in error.

B. B. Russell, solicitor-general, by Harrison & Peeples, contra. Moore v. O'Barr. Jurisdiction. Res adjudicata. Waiver. Judgments. Estoppel. Before Judge Hutchins. Franklin superior court. Simmons, J.—1. Where to levy on land of an execution against husband and wife, issued from a justice's court, the husband interposed an affidavit of illegality on the ground that the land had been setapart to him as a homestead, the affidavit should have been returned for trial to the justice's court whence the execution issued. The title to the land not being involved, the superior court had no jurisdiction. Therefore, the affidavit having been returned to the superior court, and the trial having resulted in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in execution and a judgment ordering that the same proceed, and to a fresh levy the wife having interposed her cessor in the purchase, the plaintiff having retained title in humself as security for the payment of the purchase money.

2. Although notes embracing a contract of conditional sale may not have been legally recorded, yet, if the defendants, before they became interested in the property by purchase from one who bought from the plaintiff, had actual notice of the retention of the title by the plaintiff, and that some of the notes were unpaid, the defective recording is of no consequence as to them.

3. When personal property has been sold for $375, and $250 thereof has been paid to the seller, who, having retained the title to the property to secure the purchase money, recovers in an, action of trover the property itself and $100 for hire, this court will direct that the judgment in favor of the plaintiff may be discharged by defendants paying the plaintiff the baiance of the purchase money and the interest thereon, to-wit: $125, with interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from January 13, 1887, as swell as all costs of the case, within ten days from the time the remittitur from this court is made the judgment of the court below; and if not so paid, then the original judgment in favor of the plaintiff to stand in full force.

and to a fresh levy the wife having interposed her claim on the ground that the land had been set apart to her husband as a homestead for the benefit of her and of her minor children, she was not bound by the judgment rendered on the trial of the illegality.

dict. Before Judge Weilborn. Hall superior court.

Lunpkin, J.—1. On the trial of a claim case, the claimant denanded the right to assume the burden oi proof and to open and conclude the argument, but made no offer to admit any particular fact or facts. It appeared that claimant was in possession of a portion of the property levied on, and the defendant in fi. fa. was in possession of the remaining portion thereof: Held, there was no error in refusing to allow this demand of claimant.

2. The evidence was sufficient to warrant the verdict; and the newly discovered evidence being cumulative, or only tending to discredit a witness, is not cause for a new trial.

Sibley v. Ober & Sons Company. Debtor and creditor. Principal and agent. Title. Notice. Practice. New trial. Before Judge Roney. Richmond superior court.

Lumpkin, J.—1. Where notes held by a creditor as collateral security are in the hands of the principal debtor for collection with the understanding that the proceeds are to be and remain the property of the creditor until the principal debt is paid, cotton received in payment of the collateral notes and sent to an agent of the creditor for sale must be accounted for by such agent to the creditor as property belonging to the latter.

2. There was evidence from which the trial indge, acting as a jury by the consent of parties, could find that the cotton in question belonged to the creditor, and that the agent was affected with notice of his title.

3. Where the judge acting as a jury decides the case long after hearing the evidence and argument, he may act upon his recollection of the written evidence, without having it in his possession at the time of deciding, provided he is satisfied that he remembers it, and especially if he remains of the same opinion as to the effect of it after reviewing it upon a motion for a new trial, in deciding which motion the evidence was all put, before him again and re-examined.

ABOUT ALLIANCE HEADQUARTERS. Colonel Peek Thinks the Outlook for Farm ers Very Discouraging.
Colonel W. L. Peek was at the exchange office for sometime yesterday.

"I never saw the outlook so discouraging for farmers at this time of the year," said he. "The drought has damaged all the crops in middle and north Georgia. Not more than 10 per cent of the cotton is up. We may look or more drought, too. I'm afraid it's going to be a bad year for the farmers.

"The exchange business is increasing steadily in value—much larger this season than ever before. "The new cotton bagging, that invented by the Atlanta man, Mr. King, has impressed me very favorably indeed. We can hardly do more than introduce it this season, but it will be very generally used next year.

"Negotiations with the jute manufacturers are pending yet. They offer two-pound bagging at 6.40c, having been forced to that figure from 13c.

"The committee appointed by the National Business Agents' Association to make a cotton bagging examination and report will be called to meet the last of this month or the first of the street, it will be a daisy, indeed.

It is a matter of considerable interest and much speculation as to how the motor power is to reach the street cars on Gordon street, since no preparation whatever visible to the ordinary inhabitant has been made to extend the wires or connect them to any other portion of the globe beyond the length of that street, either on the east or on the west. It may be that a power house will be erected somewhere on the line, and that the cars will only traverse this street alone and connect with the ancient "hayburners," which will continue to take us into and out of the city as usual.

NO RATE WAR.

THAT IS WHAT THE OFFICIALS OF THE EAST TENNESSEE SAT.

Withdrawal of that Road from Southern Passenger Association and What It Means.

The withdrawal of the East Tennessee from the Southern l'assenger Association is the in-teresting topic in railroad circles.

It is now over a week since the association was officially notified of the East Tennessee's intention of withdrawing, but the matter is still being discussed on all sides. The East Tennessee people have been en-deavoring to keep the matter as close as possi-ble, and a telegram was received from Colonel W. B. Wrenn, general passenger agent, yester-day, deploring the publicity of the company's ection toward the association.

Colonel Wrenn's dispatch, it is understood, expressed a fear that the impression created by the rumored causes of the withdrawal was unfavorable that such influences might broughs to bear upon the East Tennessee as vent the carrying out of the intention of withdrawing from the association.

"The withdrawal of our road from the Southern Passenger Association," said a prominent East Tennessee official yesterday "has nothing to do with rate cutting."

"No. The day for that has passed. We have no intention whatever of making a slash at established rates, once we are out.'

"We want to manage our own business-that is the long and short of it. We want to be in a position to make special rates for excursions and parties without having to ask the consent of little branch lines that have no interest whatever in our request.

"You see, if we want to make a rate any-where within the association's territory, we must wait until the request has brought to the attention of all roads in the association, whether com-petitive or not. All this consumes a great deal of time, which is very unsatis ory to the public and unjust to us, be cause, as I have remarked, we do not want to have our business controlled by local roads-by their voice in the association-in matter where their own benefit is not concerned. If we see fit to grant a special rate we want to b able to do so. If it is our interest to do so it is nobody's business but our own.

won't competitive roads, in the assoclation, be hurt, if you can make rates at your

"Well-our competitors will have to take "And you say there will be no rate cut-

"As far as regular rates are concerned—no. The Louisville and Nashville and the Queen

The Louisville and Nashville and the Queen and Crescent have both been out of the association about two years, and although they are as directly competitive as any two systems could well be, there has never been any friction between them, and we see no reason why there should be between the East Tennessee and any of its consistent. We can't offer it. competitors. We can't afford it. When two roads get to cutting rates it is simply a test between them as to which has the most money at its back, and very few roads care to throw sway a small fortune in such experiments." Will the association be affected to any ex-

"Not that I can see. If the other roads continue to consider its work beneficial, it will naturally be supported by them. We just simply consider it as a drawback, and so gave ice of our withdrawal. And just here let me make a point. Our withdrawal from the Southern Passenger Association will not, in any way, interfere with the sale of tickets er our road in connection with other roads.

which, as a member of the association, we have to put up with, and which will be overcome when we are out. Say a party, convention or something of the sort asks for a special rate over a line competing with us, we give a simi-lar rate to meet it, and the result is that a big hole is knocked in our regular passenger traffic, while the crowd goes over the line through which the request for a special rate went before the association."

Colonel Wrenn was expected in Atlanta yesterday, but he did not come. He will probably be here today.

THE BABY PINDS A HOME.

The Little One Left with the Woman's Christian Home Cared For. A bright, beautiful baby of seven or eight weeks was until yesterday awaiting the kind and loving care of a mother.

It is now, however, adopted into a home where it is assured the best of surroundings and tendesst treatment.

and tenderest treatment. Thursday a week ago a young woman ap-peared at the door of the Woman's Christian

In her arms was a lovely babe, a little gir with large black eyes and a sweet, pretty face.
The mother introduced herself as Mrs. Gorsome woman, a brunette, with every indica-tion of refinement and intelligence.

She began the conversation by stating that she wished to leave her babe at the home, and

"My husband and I separated over eight months ago. I have four children, but am un able to take care of them all, so I thought best to assure this one a training in hands, where she would be given the best of

About this time the baby, clinging to its nother, looked up into her face. But the nother was not moved by this mute appeal. "Why did you bring it to a place as far as Atlanta?"

"I heard of this home through reading of it in the papers," said she, after a moment's hesi-

"What is its name," asked the matron. "It ha-hasn't any yet," stammered the "What!" exclaimed the lady, "you have not intended doing this from the first!' The woman gave no reply—merely shrugged her shoulders, and without asking any ques tions not even manifesting any concern at the future of the little one, left the house.

The baby had been at the home since. Yesterday a notice appeared in THE CONSTITUTION to the effect that the matron wished to see it in the hands of some one who would properly raise it.

Early in the morning Mrs. J. T. Wright, living at 114 Houston street, called and after short while took the the child to her home Several others called later on in the day.

In the meantime the president of, the asso ciation, Mrs. Stainback Wilson, has been trying to ascertain something about the babe, information leading to the solution of what eems to be in the nature of a mystery surrounding the entire affair. She is in corres pondence to that purpose now.

Then again, the woman's story might have been true throughout.

SCOTT THORNTON

His Matinee This Afternoon Will Be a Big The ladies and children of Atlanta, taking the reserved seat board at Miller's as a cri terion, are all going to see Scott Thornton this

Since the announcement in yesterday's Con-STITUTION they have been checking off seats for the great matinee.

Scott is in "bang up" shape, to use his own expression. He's got his "dander" up since that Athens "ovation," and he realizes that this afternoon will be his chance to get a full hear ing. The performance is given especially for ladies and children, none of the noisy hood-Scott is going to do his level best.

"There'll be lots of people, m' d' boy, that'll find out for the first time tomorrow afternoon that I'm an actor. I've been guyed lots of times, and two or three times I have thought I was 'cooked,' but I won't give up. I know I'm an actor and tomorrow afternoon

I'm going to prove it."
Several boxes have been engaged already for this afternoon's performance, and theater parties are being organized among the society peo ple to attend. This is the first time that the ladies have ever had a chance to see the great Atlanta tragedian, and they're going to give him a warm welcome.

Judge Newsome will furnish pleasant diver sion between the acts. He recently wrote up all the schools. The school children know him and are wild to see him on the stage. He will recite the thrilling romance of "The Lone Rock by the Sea," and follow his great description with the song. The charming fascination of the story, the soul-stirring sentiments of the song, the unabashed grace of manner that only Judge Newsome possesses—these form a combination which alone to see would orm a combination which alone to see would make life well worth living.

This brilliant attraction will come in nice contrast to Mr. Thornton's serious and impressive impersonation of the great Cardinal Richelieu.

Popular prices will prevail this afternoon—down stairs 35 cents will be the price, the first gallery 25 and the second 15 cents. The boxes will be 75 cents a seat. Tickets are on sale at Miller's.

WEST END.

At 3 O'Clock P. M. This is a fresh plat of land, beautifully covered with shade trees, in full view of the city, near the Brosius Sewing Machine factory, East Tennessee shops, and all the railroads entering the south side; near the new electric car line, only one block from Central railroad hour trains, and only a little over one block from the West End electric line. This is a place where all the boys can have a chance. The lots are shaded, most of them very pretty. This property will make money for the boys. Several new houses are being built in the immediate neighborhood. Mr. Price, Colonel Everett and several others are building on the opposite side of the streets. Titles perfect. Terms, one-fourth cash, balance 5, 12 and 18 months, 8 per cent interest.
